FEBRUARY 8, 9, 15, & 16

Great Basin College Theatre, 1500 College Parkway

For more information call 738.8493.

---

FILM FESTIVAL 2013

Foundation

Great Basin College

Intellectual & Cultural Enrichment Committee

---

Admission:

- Festival Kickoff
  - Dinner 6:00 PM
  - Movie 7:00 PM

- To Rome with Love
  - Woody Allen, Alec Baldwin, Jesse Eisenberg, and Rupert Everett
  - Focus Features, Woody Allen
  - Rated R, 112 minutes, 2012

To Rome with Love is a kaleidoscopic comedy movie set in one of the world's most enchanting cities.

Well-known architect John (Alec Baldwin) is vacationing in Rome, where he once lived in his youth. Walking in his former neighborhood he encounters Jack (Jude Law), a young man not unlike himself. As he watches Jack fall head-over-heels for Monica (Eileen Page), his girlfriend Sally's (Greta Gerwig) dancing and hilarious friend, John returns one of the most romantically painted episodes of his own life.

At the same moment, retired opera director Jerry (Woody Allen) flies to Rome with his wife Playa (Judy Davis), to meet their daughter Hayley's (Aislinn Paul) Italian fiancé, Michaelangelo (Robbie Pardo). Jerry is amused to hear Michaelangelo's untutored father, Giacarlo's (presumed former opera attendant) singing aria worthy of La Scala while slogging up the stairs. Concerned that what appears to be prodigious cannot be kept hidden, Jerry clutches at the opportunity to promote Giacarlo and rejuvenate his own career.

Dinner and a Movie

- $20/person (Italian)
- 6 p.m. Bighorn Bistro
- Pay in advance at the Controller’s Office

Saturday, February 9

The Intouchables

- Paranoid Pictures, Directed by Olivier Nakache, Eric Toledano
- Stars François Cluzet, Omar Sy and Anne Le Ny
- Rated R, 115 minutes, 2012

The Intouchables depicts an uneasy camaraderie rooted in honesty and humor between two individuals who, on the surface, would seem to have nothing in common.

---

Friday, February 15

Two Days In New York

- Chris Rock, Albert Delpy, Brady Smith, Vincent Gallo
- Directed by Julie Delpy
- Rated R, 95 minutes, 2012

Two Days In New York is a talk-radio host and journalist Mingus (Chris Rock) and his French photographer girlfriend, Marion (Marion Cotillard), live costly in a New York apartment with their cat and two young children from previous relationships. But when Mingus's pally father (played by Delpy's real-life dad, Albert Delpy), has Overseas visit, it initiates two unforgettable days of family rehash. The locations push every button in the couple's relationship, truly pulling it to the test: how will the couple fare... when the French come to New York?

La Vie en Rose

- Directed by Olivier Dahan
- Stars Marion Cotillard, Sylvie Testud and Pascal Greggory | See full cast and crew
- PG-13, 140 minutes, 2007

La Vie en Rose is a non-chronological look at the life of the Little Sparrow, Edith Piaf (1915-1963). Her mother was an alcoholic street singer, her father a circus performer, her paternal grandmother a madam. During childhood she lives with each of them. At 20, she's a street singer discovered by a club owner who's soon murdered, coached by a music teacher who brings her to concert halls, and then quickly famous. Constant comparisons are алког and heartache.

---

Advance tickets/passes available at the Controller’s Office, Berg Hall